

THE WRANGELL SENTINEL

VOL. XVII. NO. 27

WRANGELL, ALASKA, THURSDAY, JUNE 27, 1918

PRICE TEN CENTS

CABLE NEWS

SEATTLE—Glen Perry Simon, a shipyard worker, was the first drawn in the new class. A Jap was the second.

AMSTERDAM—Dresden newspapers have published an appeal to the government for relief from the critical situation in Saxony which is described as being the worst in the German empire.

WASHINGTON—The President's Fourth of July speech is to be read at celebrations throughout the country simultaneously. Delivery under arrangements contemplates supplying postmasters copies to be handed four minute men.

LONDON—Lord Lieut. French in his Belfast speech assured his hearers that the Government had no intention of giving up conscription in Ireland. "Without fear or favor in the face of criticism or actual force, in case such is attempted."

LONDON—It is reported in Berlin that Kuehman, foreign secretary, has been asked to resign as a result of his war aims speeches.

PARIS—A despatch from Kiev under date of June 26 declares that the report of the assassination of the former Emperor of Russia has been confirmed. The Emperor was killed by Bolshevik troops during their retreat on Yekaterinburg.

LONDON—British have taken a strong German position near Vieux Bourquin east of Hazebrouck. They captured prisoners and machine guns.

PARIS—An artillery duel is in progress south of the Aisne today.

C. M. Coulter has been confined to his home, by illness, for several days this week.

FOR MARINE DRIVER cable to Ketchikan Marine Railway or write to John Peters, box 596, Ketchikan, Alaska.

There will be a big dance at the Band Hall, Tuesday evening, July 2, at 9 o'clock for the benefit of Wrangell Sisterhood. Everybody is cordially invited. Come one, come all. Admission 50c for men, ladies free.

All Fourth of July committees are requested to meet at the town hall Monday evening at 7:30 o'clock.

Miss Marguerite Uhler has been suffering from an attack of tonsillitis this week. Miss Florence Quast is taking her place in the dry goods section of St. Michaels Trading Co. store.

Miss Hazel Dryness arrived on the Princess Sophia from the States to spend the summer with her sister, Mrs. A. Strand, at Craig.

The Adoration of the Wigs. Wigs were never so popular as in the reign of Charles II. The author of "The Buxom and the Dandies" tells us that "when Clobber played Sir Fopling Flutter his wig was so much admired that he had it carried to the footlights every evening in a sedan chair, from which it was handed to him that he might put it on his head."

A Matter of Business. "I cannot understand, sir, why you permit your daughter to sneer for breach of promise. You remember that you were bitterly opposed to our engagement because I wasn't good enough for her and would disgrace the family." "Young man, that was sentiment; this is business."

A True Gift. Words, money, all things else, are comparatively easy to give away, but when a man makes a gift of his daily life and practice it is plain that the truth, whatever it may be, has taken possession of him.—Lowell

Let the Depth of Your Pocket Show the Depth of Your Patriotism

While you are at home tonight, many American boys "over there" are out in the rain and mud dodging death from bomb and shrapnel.

While you are enjoying your evening cigar, some American soldier may be smoking his last.

The boys in the trenches are risking their lives for you; and you are not even asked to risk your money for them. But you are expected to loan your money—loan it at four per cent compound interest, the highest rate the Government has ever paid.

Tomorrow, June 28th, is National War Savings Day. Pledge yourself to buy War Savings Stamps.

The more money you lend the Government the sooner the war will end and the less American blood will be shed.

Fourth of July Program

1. America.
2. Invocation by Adj. Habkirk.
3. Chorus—"We Are Going to Take the Sword Away from William"—by the young young ladies.
4. Recitation—"Independence Day Plans"—John Grant, Jr.
5. Solo—Miss Grace Wigg.
6. Recitation—"The Outer Guard"—Wm. Habkirk.
7. Solo—"Keep the Home Fires Burning"—Miss Frobesie.
8. Recitation—"The Ballad of James Baxter"—Ralph Davis.
9. Solo—Mrs. Warren.
10. Recitation—"Edith Cavell, The Red Cross Martyr"—Miss Belle Hood.
11. Chorus—"The Battle Cry of Freedom."
12. Oration—Mr. Chas. A. Garfield.
13. Chorus—"The Star Spangled Banner."

PATRIOTIC DANCE

The dance given in the Rink Tuesday evening by T. J. Case for the purpose of raising a tobacco fund for Wrangell soldier boys was largely attended and hugely enjoyed.

Most excellent music was furnished by an orchestra.

The splendid sum of $69 was realized for soldier boys who have gone from Wrangell.

When seen by the Sentinel reporter Mr. Case kindly furnished the following statement:

Receipts at door	$84.00
Expenses—
Music	$8.00
Hall rent	5.00
Posters	2.00
	15.00
Balance	$69.00

Rort Beauclere will not be without music during the summer. John Burkland this week received his big Italian harp which he has played for years, and which has been in cold storage for several months. There also arrived on the Spokane Tuesday evening a noted violin and its artist owner, Marx Mason. Mr. Mason will spend the summer in the employ of the Beauclere Packing Co. Messrs. Burkland and Mason played together before coming to Alaska. Both gentlemen are members of the American Federation of Musicians.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Leggett of Chicago were passengers to Atlin on the Prince Rupert which was in port this morning. Mr. Leggett is a member on the Chicago American. While in the North Mr. Leggett is acting as a representative of the Chicago firm of Scrimger and Driggs who are about to open up a curio establishment in the Windy City. He is contracting for totem poles from 6 inches to 20 feet in length, and expects to rush the first shipment by express from Skagway. Later shipments will be sent by freight.

The Wrangell Fire Department on last Thursday moved its apparatus into the Central Saloon building which was recently bought by the town and fitted up as a firehouse.

GRAND BALL ON THE EVENING OF JULY 3

Stikine Tribe No. 5, Imp'd Order of Redmen will give their annual ball on the evening of Wednesday, July 3. At the meeting of the Redmen Tuesday evening it was decided that the proceeds of the ball would be donated to the Red Cross.

DRAFT AGE MEN MUST HAVE PERMIT

SAN FRANCISCO.—Men of the draft age will not be allowed to travel on coastwise or ocean-going steamers without a permit from the draft board, according to a ruling of the customs authorities in San Francisco. It is expected that this ruling will not be applied to all coastwise ports on the Pacific.

The graduating class at the Sheldon Jackson school this year consisted of three Thlingit girls and two Hydab boys. They were Jessie Weir, Tenakee; Paul McAlpin, Ketchikan; Lily Kennedy, Ketchikan; Gertrude Orr, Kake; and Sayres McAlpin, Ketchikan.

Frank John who has been attending the University of Oregon and George Johnson who has been attending the Chemawa Industrial school arrived in Wrangell last week. They left on the Karen Friday morning for their home at Shakan.

William H. Payne, manager of the coast sales department of the P. B. Yates Machine Company, manufacturers of wood working machinery, with factory at Beloit, Wis., was in Wrangell a few days ago interviewing local sawmill men. Mr. Payne's headquarters are in Seattle.

R. G. Wayland, superintendent of the Treadwell Mining Company, arrived the first of the week from Shakan where his company is developing a molybdenite property. Mr. Wayland left for Juneau on the Spokane Tuesday night.

Louis Schott on Saturday received a cablegram from his son-in-law, Lieut. Donnell Greeley at Camp Fremont, Palo Alto, Cal., stating that he had been ordered to France. Mr. Schott stated that he hoped to have Mrs. Greeley come north as soon as her husband leaves. Mrs. Greeley who is remembered in Wrangell as Clyda Schott has a host of friends here who will be delighted to see her again.

Dr. W. J. Bigg was a passenger on the Spokane to Petersburg where he will visit for a few days. Dr. Bigg states that his family are now in Kansas City. The Doctor states that he expects to go into the army in a few weeks.

Dr. and Mrs. L. H. Bell of Tacoma were round trip passengers on the Spokane Tuesday. Dr. Bell was in Germany when the war began, and he states that if the United States had not entered the war Germany would have had a good chance to triumph.

The cannery at Little Port Walter is being torn down and a three-line cannery installed in place of the one-line. Salmon and herring will be salted, smoked and canned and all offal made into fertilizer. The expenditure of money will exceed $150,000. This cannery is one of the first to put in a private fertilizer plant, and it is likely that others will follow suit.

Harry B. Leggett, a student of the University of Oregon, arrived on the Jefferson last week and left for Shakan on the Karen Friday morning. Mr. Leggett stated that he expected several student friends to join him later.

ANSWERS CALL OF THE NORTH

Woman Eighty One Years Old Comes to Alaska to Drink In Its Beauty

The Northland is a challenge; many and complex are the motives that entice all sorts and conditions of men and women to its shores.

Among the arrivals on the S. S. Spokane Tuesday evening was Mrs. S. E. Coe, a widow of a Civil War veteran, and 81 years old. She comes from Ortling, Wash., which is the home of veterans. Mrs. Coe said, "I am just taking my furlough and intend to put up in your beautiful city until the spirit of adventure prompts me to move again. I have rented J. E. Ensey's house on Church street where several of my friends will enjoy with me the comforts of home."

Mrs. Coe is as spry and vivacious as a young woman of 30. She can make her own clothes and attend easily to all the functions of a home without strain.

Mrs. Coe can shoot a gun to perfection, hunt and fish like any good sport.

Withal she is an interesting conversationalist having many anecdotes to relate from an aged line of ancestry on her father's side. She desires to meet and make many friends and acquaintances while here.

Mrs. Coe is accompanied by Mrs. M. L. Barnett of Hay Creek, Oregon who has just made final proof on her homestead there.

CANNERY TENDER BARNES DESTROYED BY FIRE FRIDAY

The cannery tender Barnes, owned by the F. C. Barnes Co. of Lake Bay, caught fire off Tolstoy Point in Clarence Straits at 3 o'clock Friday afternoon and in a few minutes was a total loss. All the crew got off safely and a few moments later 1500 gallons of fuel oil exploded.

The Barnes was 65 feet long, 16 ft. beam, powered with an 85 h. p. Frisco Standard engine. The Barnes carried a large quantity of rigging and other expensive equipment. Several hundred dollars' worth of personal effects of Engineer R. S. Gardner and wife were lost.

The destruction of the Barnes just at the opening of the cannery season is a serious loss to the F. C. Barnes Co. Unless the tender can be replaced in the immediate future the pack of the company will be cut down considerably in consequence.

FINNS NOT CLASSED AS ALIEN ENEMIES

(Petersburg Report.)

Assistant District Attorney Regan visited in town while the City of Seattle was in port last Sunday. Mr. Regan said that in his notice, published last week, in regard to fishing restrictions, the erroneously classed Finns with German alien enemies. Natives of Finland, he says, have the right to fish when they have taken out first papers and such papers are not seven years old, the same as persons from other countries not at war with the United States.

The natives at Klawock in southeastern Alaska subscribed $3400 for Liberty bonds, and four of the young men enlisted. Hydaburg, Metlakatla and other native towns have also subscribed liberally. One of the chiefs urged the natives to give their money liberally, for he told them they could put up fish, raise vegetables and get along by returning to their old methods of living. The natives of Alaska are thus standing shoulder to shoulder in helping finance the war.—Anchorage Times.

Mrs. and Mrs. G. W. Matheson who have been visiting relatives at Bogium, Wash., arrived in Wrangell last week and left on the Karen for their home at Craig.

MARIUS HANSOME

As New Government Superintendent at Hydaburg

Mr. Marius Hansome of Seattle stopped over at the Wrangell hotel on his way to Hydaburg where he will relieve Mr. Wells as representative of the Bureau of Education. Mr. Hansome has studied in the departments of Education and Journalism at the University of Washington, and he has had experience as principal and superintendent of schools in the grammar and high schools of several States. His family will join him later.

ONE MAN IS KILLED AND ONE INJURED AT WATERFALL CANNERY

One man was killed and another injured last Wednesday morning about eleven o'clock when the retort at the Alaska Fish Company's cannery burst, from presumably over-pressure of steam, is the report brought in by Superintendent W. E. Epperson of Waterfall.

Yamamura, a Japanese employee had his head crushed and died about half an hour after the explosion, while George Heid, foreman of the cannery was injured and taken to the hospital at Craig, where he is recovering rapidly as his injury was not of a serious nature.

Superintendent Epperson said last evening in telling about the affair, that it was purely accidental. The men were busy as usual when the explosion occurred, and no blame could be placed on any one or more persons, he said. Yamamura who was sweeping about the retort at the time of the explosion, was hurled with such force against the side of the building that his head was crushed and he died shortly after.

Miner.

Chilberg Visits Kasaan

(Ketchikan Miner) Mr. J. E. Chilberg, banker, miner and business man of Seattle, accompanied by Mr. A. J. Larson, a prominent mining man of Spokane, arrived last evening on the steamer Alaska and left again this morning for Kasaan, where Mr. Chilberg owns the Salthuck Mine, formerly the "Goodrow Mine." They expect to be back in town the first part of the week when Mr. Chilberg will likely make a statement of the success of the venture.

ADJUTANT HABKIRK TO TAKE UP NEW LINE OF WORK

- The rehabilitation of the returned soldiers.
- Visitation of convalescent hospital.
- Visitation of military camps.
- Visitation of war widows, wives and children.
- Visitation of military barracks.
- Forming a link with war veterans association and all other kindred military organizations.
- Tracing up war enquiries as to friends.
- Visitation and correspondence to bereaved of all classes of society.

Meeting of trains containing soldiers, also those leaving for the front, whether connected with Winnipeg or passing through.

The Sentinel is in receipt of a copy of the Manufacturers Directory covering industries having either offices or general offices or both in Seattle. The directory contains no advertising matter whatsoever and is purely a reference book regarding the factories and a commodity index. Anyone desiring a copy of the Manufacturers' directory may obtain same free of charge by addressing The Manufacturers' Association, 802 Arctic Building, Seattle, Wash.

SUBMARINE CHASERS IN ALASKAN WATERS

Submarine Chaser No. 310 was in port Monday afternoon and was viewed with much interest by Wrangell citizens.

The Sentinel man called upon G. N. Havens, commanding officer, and W. R. Botkin, executive officer. From these gentlemen it was learned that there are now four submarine chasers in Alaskan waters, and they are here to remain indefinitely. The Government, while not expecting any trouble in Alaska, is applying the principle of safety first. The presence of these armed vessels means that there will be no disturbance along the coast that will interfere with industries of any kind. Any I. W. W. or pro-German activities will be quelled in their incipency.

J. W. McCormack of the Department of Justice was aboard the vessel which was in port here.

No. 310 will make its headquarters at Ketchikan. No. 309 will make its headquarters at Juneau. There is another chaser at Cordova, and still another farther westward.

No. 310 which was in port here Monday is 110 feet long with 11 foot beam. It has one heavy gun and a number of machine guns. The cargo consists almost solely of artillery and ammunition. It is no exaggeration to say that these chasers are floating arsenals. The crew is composed of trained gunners. All of the chasers are equipped with radio apparatus, and can be communicated with at any time. Being of high speed they can be on hand in a very short time anywhere along the Alaskan coast that they might be needed.

These chasers were built at Bremerton and are capable of greater speed than any passenger steamer. The executive officer of the 310 informs us that when she is running at full speed she consumes 100 gallons of gasoline an hour.

Rear Admiral Coontz of the U. S. Navy was aboard the Princess Alice Friday evening southbound. The Admiral was returning to Bremerton from Juneau where he discussed with Gov. Riggs, U. S. Marshal Tanner and two agents of the Department of Justice the best way to work in connection with the patrol of four submarine chasers which the Government has ordered to Alaskan waters.

HARDING IS ACTING FOOD ADMINISTRATOR

L. L. Harding will be the acting federal food administrator for the Territory of Alaska until such time as the matter of a successor of the late Judge Royal A. Gunnison is determined by the United States food administration at Washington.

Since the creation of the federal food administration in Alaska, over six months ago, Mr. Harding has been the executive, secretary and assistant to the late federal food administrator as well as the educational director in handling the important divisions of publicity of that nationwide war organization which is to play so important a part in winning the great struggle.

Mr. Harding has been in the services of the government for 22 years.

Redmen Elect Officers

At the meeting of the Redmen Tuesday evening the following officers were elected for the ensuing year:

W. H. Warren, sachem.

Chas. Benjamin, senior sagamore.

M. O. Johnson, junior sagamore.

Ole Johnson, prophet.

L. M. Churchill, chief of records.

J. E. Worden, keeper of wampum.

P. C. McCormack, collector of wampum.

Chas. Benjamin, trustee.

Installation will take place next Tuesday.

Bishop Rowe confirmed a class of eleven at St. John's Episcopal church at Ketchikan last week.

The War Is Not 3,000 Miles Away

It is being fought out right here, and now, with American dollars. Every moment's delay in properly equipping and provisioning our fighting men retards the victory.

Time is the important thing!

You are your brother's keeper. Your own sense of honor will not permit you to withhold the support your boy—your relative—your friend needs. If you refuse to lend money to Uncle Sam, you help make his army and navy impotent; you keep our boys on the battle front longer than necessary. To give quickly—to give freely—insures a speedy U. S. victory. To refuse your support is to assist the Kaiser's armies.

The essence of patriotism is a quick response to your country's needs.

BE PATRIOTIC!

Any post-office, bank or store will tell you all about Thrift Stamps or War Savings Stamps. Ask about them today, but don't stop at that. Buy some at once. Buy a stamp and remember your money is loaned to, and its return at a good rate of interest guaranteed by, the U. S. Government.

MEMORIALS FOR THEIR DEAD

Serbian Ever Keep Green the Memory of Deceased Members of Their Families.

It is not quite accurate to entitle this ceremony a funeral, for it is not that, but we have in English no one word or two words with which to express the meaning. In order to secure complete accuracy, it would have been necessary to head this sketch with the words, "Ceremony Performed by a Serbian Family on the Anniversary of the Death of One of Its Members," and no newspaper copy reader would pass a title like that, writes a correspondent.

It is the custom of the country to remember the dead on the anniversary of death by a pilgrimage to the graveyard, with all appropriate ceremonies. A morbid custom, and one that might be productive of endless and needless grief, according to our ideas, but the Serbs are a hard race and face their sorrows without covering them. All of the family files to the cemetery, accompanied by close friends and headed by priests. Flowers are laid on the grave, prayers are offered and the women weep. The virtues of the dead are extolled and he is addressed and apostrophized.

This part of the ceremony over, the company sit down to a meal that they have brought with them. The affair takes on the aspect of some grave social occasion. Wine is drunk and much food is eaten. It is customary to tell all the anecdotes and incidents relating to the dead man that those present can remember. Even bits of the past that have a humorous turn are not barred. It is in some sort a bringing forth of his whole memory and setting him again before his people, brushing aside the passing days that were hiding the thoughts of him from view.

It is interesting to speculate on the meaning of this unusual practice, and on the human tendency that gave it birth and keeps it alive. It seems to root in the old human dread of being forgotten completely. As these people do it unto the dead, so they expect their children and their relatives to do unto them, and they cherish the custom as a fountain that will keep their own memory green when their time comes.

Learn Value of Men.

In one of the chapters of "A Student in Arms," by Donald Hankey, a volunteer in the English army at the beginning of this war, this authority says: "On the whole, though, actual experience of war brings the best men to the fore, and the best qualities of the average man. Officers and men are welded into a closer comradeship by dangers and discomforts shared. They learn to trust each other and to look for the essential qualities rather than for the accidental graces. One learns to love men for their great hearts, their pluck, their indomitable spirits, their irrepressible humor, their readiness to shoulder a weaker brother's burden in addition to their own. One sees men as God sees them, apart from externals such as manner and intonation. A night in a bombing party shows you Jim Smith as a man of splendid courage. A shortage of rations reveals his wonderful unselfishness. One danger and discomfort after another you share in common until you love him as a brother. Out there, if anyone dared to remind you that Jim was only a fireman while you were a bank clerk, you would give him one in the eye to go on with. You have learned to know a man when you see one and to value him."

Largest Catch of Salmon.

New fish are introduced every year and new fishing grounds discovered and surveyed for the benefit of fishermen. Rescue work among the fishes is also undertaken and last year more than 8,000,000 fish, left stranded in evaporating pools, were saved to grow up to a life of usefulness—that is, big enough to be fit for the table.

A skilled investigator has been studying frog culture, and the Alaska salmon fisheries have been so guarded and protected in accordance with federal laws that this season's catch has been enormous, the largest ever made.

The Alaska seals constitute the most valuable herd of wild animals ever owned by any government, and the bureau of fisheries is their custodian.

CO-ED COURTSHIP.

By SYLVIA TURNER.

(Copyright, 1917, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

The principal reason why the family decided that Hilda should go to Sagamore college was because it was co-ed. Aunt Jane held that in a strictly female seminary a girl's mind was apt to be so filled with her studies and feminine pursuits that she was unfitted for her life role of wifehood. The doctor took an entirely different view of the situation, as he told Hilda the night before she left.

"Dear girl, you've lead a lonely, monotonous sort of life at this old place, with just Jean and myself. You need companionship of boys and girls your own age. Long ago your mother, bless her, was a student at Sagamore. You are to have the same room she had, and her seat in the dining hall. Have a good time and don't have too many love affairs. By the way, you may find a stepmother here when you come back, one whom I know you will love."

"You mean Mrs. Everdon, dad?" she asked, a little break in her tone.

"I mean Paula Everdon," he responded, quietly.

When she had been at Sagamore just two weeks, far too busy to dwell upon her own personal troubles, she was one day on a tall mountain spur overlooking the Hudson for miles. A storm had been brewing and she had been trying to make the college grounds before it broke. But in her hurry, she stumbled on the rocks, lost her footing and fell. She tried to rise, but could not, and suddenly there came a drenching downpour of rain, with a crash of thunder.

She wore a short military cape, and threw this around her like a poncho, trying to shelter herself from the downpour. All at once she felt herself lifted bodily in strong arms and carried on a run to the shelter of an old, deserted shack used by workmen who had been blasting.

It was dark inside the hut, so dark that she could hardly discern the face of her rescuer. The terrific noise outside barred any attempt at conversation, but he had removed her cape and was busy trying to light a fire on the old stone hearth. When the blaze flared up she caught a glimpse of his face. It was a strong young one. He turned and smiled at her, feeling her scrutiny.

"We're apt to be here for some time. You'd better make yourself comfortable. I hope you're not far from your home?"

"Just Sagamore," replied Hilda, holding out her hands to the fire. "I'm afraid I can't help myself very much. My shoulder and ankle both seemed to catch it when I fell. Perhaps when you go, you might leave word at the college, so they'd send for me. I'd be awfully obliged."

"I think I can manage to get you over, myself," he said; "at least as far as the gates; then I can run down after you in the dean's car."

It did not seem that they were together long before the storm cleared, yet three hours had passed when Hilda finally reached her own room.

"Isn't he a perfect darling," said Anne Rathburn, her roommate, when Hilda was snug on the big couch, drinking tea. "I haven't seen him at any of the classes. He must be a senior."

It surely gave her prestige among the other freshmen, this being cared for in cavalier fashion by a senior.

His name was Ralph, she found out from some of the other boys, Ralph Kingslake. After she grew to know him better, he told her something of his own life. Hilda had been fearfully curious over the visits of a very handsome woman in black who came and left the college grounds in a large touring car every Sunday.

"Oh, that's the matter," Ralph told her. "She's fearfully good to me. She's just my stepmother, but we've been regular pals ever since my father died. She put me through college, and we rather keep an eye on each other. You see, by the terms of my father's will, if she marries before I'm twenty-five, she loses all but her dower right in the estate. But then again, if I marry before I've established myself under twenty-five, I'll lose a whole lot and she wins."

Hilda looked at him appreciatively. "I should think it would be splendid to go deliberately against such a will," she said.

The months passed, and June loomed ahead. Hilda viewed its coming anxiously. Her father's wedding was set for the latter part of June.

Somewhat she felt that she could not go home and find a stranger in her mother's place. Ralph told her his plans one night when they were walking up the elm-bordered campus.

From habit they went into the little room used as college post office. There was a letter in each of their boxes. Hilda finished her's first.

"Oh, Ralph, dad's married Mrs. Everdon!" she cried. "I'm so glad we decided that we had a right to our own happiness."

Ralph's brown eyes twinkled. "The matter's name is Mrs. Everdon. She dropped the Kingslake when she went into business for herself and took her maiden name. By jove, isn't it funny?"

Hilda bit her lips to hide a smile. "I think," she said, "we'd better telegraph them our blessings."

REPUBLICANS NAME RUSSELL FOR SENATOR

JUNEAU.—The Southeastern Alaskan Republican Association, through the delegates who were present, nominated the following Legislative ticket for the First Division:

For Senator—Ed C. Russell of Juneau.

For Representatives—Grover C. Winn of Juneau, H. R. Shepard of Juneau, J. H. Davies of Ketchikan and Peter C. McCormack of Wrangell.

For Road Commissioner—Jack Wilson of Treadwell.

The convention endorsed Judge James Wickersham for Delegate to Congress and Col. Roosevelt.

Of those nominated J. H. Davies and Peter C. McCormack were nominated as Republican candidates for Representatives at the Republican primary election last April, and their endorsement by the convention in reality was an endorsement.

The nominees of the convention except in the case of McCormack and Davies, will appear on the ticket as independent candidates.

Mrs. P. C. McCormack and children who have been at San Diego for several months are now visiting relatives in Bellingham. They will return to Wrangell at an early date.

L. Manson arrived from the States on the Spokane Tuesday evening. He left at once for Santa Ana where he has accepted a position as bookkeeper for the Northwestern Fisheries.

J. Ronning was a passenger to Juneau on the Spokane Tuesday evening.

The Anchorage Times prints an article about F. T. Hope saying that twenty years ago he shot a moose where that burg is located. Judging from a recent post card issued by the Anchorage Commercial Club, most derogatory to this section of Alaska, two years from now they will be shooting squirrels as the nuts are beginning to ripen.

REVEREND BECK IS ASSIGNED TO DUTY

(Juneau Dispatch)

Rev. George J. Beck, prominent in connection with Presbyterian work among the Alaska natives, has been assigned to duty as chaplain aboard a transport running from New York harbor to an English port.

Rev. Beck was among the first to volunteer his services to the flag. His new duties carry him back and forth through the torpedo zone and where there is an element of danger at all times.

RED + CROSS NOTES

Please deliver at the town hall on Tuesday and Friday afternoons all finished knitted articles for the Red Cross.

There are two classes of businessmen who give their time and equipment unstintingly to the government without hope of financial return—bankers and newspapermen. During a Liberty Loan drive every bank and every newspaper turns its entire equipment over to the service of the government without money and without price. The newspapers furnish the publicity without which no bond issue of such magnitude could be floated in such short time, and the banks furnish the skilled help and machinery for handling the millions of subscriptions, keeping books on deferred payments, carrying accounts, etc., and later issuing the bond. The bankers and newspaper deserves great credit, for no other line of industry gives its services absolutely free of charge.—The Manufacturer.
